Hockney walks around chair--casing the job, right?--draws it fm various angles, floorboards too

That's ok it's still a chair, someone's fancy of it, but besides the yahoos saying their 8 yr olds cd do as well,where can the hatred begin among the others? The beginning-middle-end "focus" crowd, their scorn almost as easily earned. We go beyond such bounds and grounds , further than Hackney for example, they still have a word for us--fortunate product of education--and it, and that's good. Their certainty about such matters will delay your execution.
So much that you might die beforehand (unless you get just too confound confounding) which is a good thing for most of us, but especially dealers in words, the easiest to apprehend.
